DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's amendment dated 08/15/2006 has been received and entered. By the amendment, claims 1, 3-6, 13-16 and the newly added claims 17-20 are now pending in the application.

Applicant's arguments dated 08/15/2006 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejections as follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 3-6, 13-16 and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Iijima, US Patent No. 6,906,767, in view of Nakamaru et al., JP 2001-281654.

Regarding the above claims, Iijima discloses a liquid crystal display (LCD) device (figure 9) comprising:

- . a backlight having a light source (71), a light guide plate (72), a reflector (80);
- . a diffuser (30);
- . an LCD panel (20) with a reflective polarizing plate (40);

Iijima, however, does not disclose a plurality of V-shaped grooves, printing dots, a quarter-wave plate and a brightness enhancing film. Nakamaru et al. do disclose that a plurality of V-shape grooves can be directly formed on a top surface of the light guide (figure 5b), a plurality of printing dots formed on a bottom surface of the light guide (103), a quarter wave plate (109) and a brightness enhancing film (polarization division plate 108). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the invention was made to modify the Iijima's display device having a plurality of V-grooves, printing dots, a quarter-wave plate and an enhanced film as shown by Nakamaru et al. in order to improve display brightness of an LCD device (see abstract).

Conclusion

3. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
